About People And Things

BY C. B. McDOWELL

TWO FINE SHOWERS

This area received two fine showers last Thursday and Friday afternoons. Harold English reported his rain gauge showed 1.1 of an inch fell at his home Thursday and nearly that amount Friday. Showers visited various sections of the county, some spots receiving heavy rainfall. In some instances it was accompanied by wind and hail. The showers, according to farmers from different sections of the county, were greatly needed and will be of much benefit to crops, pastures and gardens. Additional moisture would be welcomed by farmers. So far, it is reported, cotton, corn and peanuts are in pretty fair shape and promise to make good crops with favorable weather conditions from here on out.

LOSERS CAR

Drexel Cook, well known for his Elba auto salesman who now holds down a responsible position in the Alabama State Revenue Department, tells an exciting story of how he lost his automobile one day last week. Mr. Cook said he had his car parked by the State Capitol and two colored trustees decided to make a trip in it. They hopped into the car and hurried away, running over a high curb and across a yard in their haste. The Negroes eventually were not acquainted with the workings of the car's overdrive and neglected to release the emergency brake. They made a trip all the way to Wetumpka with the brake retarding the progress of the car to such an extent that when it was recovered in Wetumpka the radiator was dry, the oil gone, block cracked and motor burned up. The escapes were captured within an hour after their departure from the Capitol. Mr. Cook said the damage was covered by insurance but it was hard for him to understand why the Negroes selected his Chevrolet in preference to the numerous limousines and other larger and more expensive automobiles parked around him.

CURTIS JONES VISITS

Curtis Jones of Mobile visited his grandparents, Rev. & Mrs. A. Jones of West Elba several days this week. He is a member of the U. S. Coast Guard and has been attending school at Hartford for the past six months. He has been in the service for 11 months of his four-year enlistment. He will report to New Orleans after visiting his grandparents and attended Elba High School but was graduated from Mobile High School two years ago.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

The Rev. Elvin T. Edgar, pastor of the Elba Methodist church, is attending the annual session of the Alabama Methodist conference which is being held in Montgomery this week. The conference started Tuesday night and will continue through Friday. Last year, Friday night's session did not close until after midnight and Rev. Edgar did not reach home until 3 o'clock Saturday morning.

AL ELBA COURTHOUSE FRIDAY—

A 4-H Essay and Public Speaking Contest will be staged Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the Elba courthouse. Tom Cassidy, assistant county agent, said. Twelve boys and girls will take part in the competition to determine the best boy and girl speaker. The winners will then go to the district elimination in Troy June 7 and if a winner there to the state meet. The speaking is being co-sponsored by the cooperatives in the county. They are the REA, Production Credit Association, Farm Bureau and Livestock Co-op.

INSTALL OFFICERS

Officers elected to serve for the ensuing year were installed Sunday night at the Elba Methodist church with impressive ceremonies with Pastor Elvin T. Edgar presiding. It was the last service of the conference year and newly installed officers of the various departments take over their responsibilities commencing Sunday.

REPORTS

Reports were read which revealed a healthy growth in all departments of the church's activities for the past year. A social hour followed the installation ceremonies and refreshments were served.

Heavy Culling Starts In Flocks Next Month

June will be an important month in the poultryman's management program, for he will have old layers dropping out of production and they will have to be removed from the flock. Signs such as color changes, body changes and moulting will tell the experienced flock owner which hens are no longer able to pay their board.

Hoyt M. Warren, API Extension poultryman, believes egg producers should always be on the alert to take out birds that lay poorly or grow slowly. And the entire flock ought to be carefully culled whenever birds must be handled for any other reason.

How to Reduce Forest Fires That Burned 207,000 Acres in Alabama to Be Discussed

Montgomery—How to reduce forest fires that burned 207,000 acres of Alabama timberland in 1955 at an estimated economic loss of $14 million will be discussed at the Alabama Forest Fire Prevention Conference here June 20 by leaders from all 67 Alabama counties.

Troy Brannan, of Brewton, General Conference chairman, said, "We are seeking statewide participation in this conference. We have named temporary chairmen to call meetings for arranging local participation."

"We think that forward-looking citizens who are interested in the future of Alabama's economy must be interested enough to participate in this conference," Brannan said.

"We have received word of encouragement and interest from legislators and officials at the state and county levels. The meeting of 1200 Southern leaders in a South-wide conference in New Orleans April 13-14 demonstrated how great is the concern of our people over timber losses to wildfires."

The Montgomery meeting will be designed to show Alabama's people why wildfires must be reduced and how it can be accomplished.

Brannan continued, "Lumber, paper-making and other wood-using industries have been Alabama's third largest industry in recent years. Forest products are worth an estimated $400 million each year and 23 percent of the state's total industrial employment is in the wood-using industries. The value of most southern trees has increased as much as 10 times, indicating that the state's forests will mean even more to the economy of her people in future years. From these facts, it should be obvious that for the benefit of all, Alabama's forests must be protected from damaging wildfires."

Western Crossbred Ewe Is State Choice

AUBURN—Now that the old Pinney Woods ewes, which once were found on so many farms in this state, are no longer available, western crossbred sheep are Alabama producers' best bet for their ewe flocks.

Only sources of ewes today are the range states of the West and eastern farm states. Ewes from the latter, including Alabama, usually have a high percentage of blood of the nation breeds. According to W. H. Gregory, who is Extension livestock agent, these animals are late breeders and normally do not lamb early enough for the market at the time when prices are up.

On their part, western crossbred ewes are of a type that have a good deal of Rambouillet blood and will breed early. Rambouillet, a breed that was developed for wool has little term crossbred blood, which Gregory, who is Extension livestock agent, says that crossbred ewes are of a type that have a good deal of Rambouillet blood and will breed early.

Watermelon Acreage 10 Percent Below Last Year; 6 Percent Lower than 5-Year Average

The Alabama Commercial Vegetable report as of May 1 reveals that production of commercial early Irish Potatoes in Alabama is estimated at 3,640,000 bushels, about 13 percent above the 10-year average for 1945-54. Acreage is estimated at 18,200 acres, 300 less than last year. Yields are indicated at 200 bushels per acre, and if realized would be the highest on record for the State.

Production in the late Spring States is estimated at 40,542,000 bushels, 3 percent below last year. The expected production in California at 29,929,000 bushels accounts for 74 percent of the late spring crop.

Tracy is probably the most lodge and disease-resistant of the recommended varieties of sweet sorghum. Strawberry patches that are to be kept another year should be sprayed with DDT.

A pig with just the normal number of worms eats almost 13 ounces more feed to gain one pound than does a worm-free pig. Asphalt-coated pick sacks are the source of many tar spots that ruin cotton fabrics.

A list of approved seed processing plants can be obtained from the state seed certifying agency at Auburn.

At present 24 cows and calves are grazing five acres of bahia. He attributes this fine grazing to fertilization. He says that a pasture needs to be fertilized the same way another crop to get best results.

Mr. Hataway is following a Conservation Plan Map of his farm and plans to plant more of his steep land to bahia.

J. D. Thomaston, Rhodes community, says that bahia is providing plenty of grazing for his cows, although he has had a lot of dry weather. Most of the grass was planted on land that was not profitable to keep in cultivation.

Howard Foley, Curtis community, believes in his trees. He is farming his woodland. Six years ago he set out 35 acres in pine trees. Today these trees are from 4 to 6 inches in diameter. He has not another 4 to 6 years these trees will be ready to thin for pulp wood. Before the trees were out in the land was not producing anything. Mr. Foley plants some pines every year. His plans are to get every idle acre on his farm growing pine trees.

He is killing out his hardwood trees where they are over toping young pines. This is done by girdling the undesirable trees. Jack Monk, project forester, is assisting Mr. Foley in marking trees that are ready for market. This service is free to farmers upon request.

MODERN ETIQUETTE

Q. How does a woman's name below this signature or in the corner of a letter differ from her name add in parentheses (Mrs. John H. Thomas). When she is the wife of a hotel register?

Q. When signing a formal letter, should she sign her name as "Mrs. John H. Thomas," or "Mrs. John H. Thomas," and then "Mrs. Thomas?"

Q. When a woman drops some article and a stranger picks it up for her, what should she say?

Q. A pleasant "thank you" is usually kind and efficient.

Q. It is better not to do this.

Q. A trained nurse belongs to the professional class and would not be considered a socialite.

Q. When a dinner guest is a home is offered a dish he dislikes, isn't he privileged to say, "No, thank you?"

Q. Although this may be his privilege, he will reveal much better manners to take a small portion and at least make a pretense of eating it.

Q. When a woman guest is staying in one's home for a week or two, what is the best way to introduce one's friends?

Q. One of the best and most popular ways is to have an afternoon bridge or tea party in the guest's honor.

Q. Is it all right to use the telephone to thank a person for sending flowers?

A. Yes, and telephone immediately. A note of thanks, however, is still better.

Q. Would it be proper when leaving a hospital to tip a trained nurse who has been unusually kind and efficient?

A. It is better not to do this.

Q. When a dinner guest is a home is offered a dish he dislikes, isn't he privileged to say, "No, thank you?"

Q. Although this may be his privilege, he will reveal much better manners to take a small portion and at least make a pretense of eating it.

Q. When a woman guest is staying in one's home for a week or two, what is the best way to introduce one's friends?

Q. One of the best and most popular ways is to have an afternoon bridge or tea party in the guest's honor.

Q. Is it all right to use the telephone to thank a person for sending flowers?

A. Yes, and telephone immediately. A note of thanks, however, is still better.

Q. Would it be proper when leaving a hospital to tip a trained nurse who has been unusually kind and efficient?

A. It is better not to do this.

Q. A trained nurse belongs to the professional class and would not be considered a socialite.

Pretty, Dark Cottons Can Be Starched Well

AUBURN—Don't be afraid to starch pretty dark cotton frocks. Such garments look and feel so much better with a smooth, crisp finish. And Miss Stella Mitchell of the API Extension Service says they can be starched quite successfully with one of the modern, thin solution-type starches.

These starches will leave neither streaks nor a dull white film which masks the clear colors of these materials, explains the home management specialist. Both hot and cold water solutions may be used, but be sure the starch is the type that goes into the fabric, not onto it, and that it is made according to directions.

Miss Mitchell also stresses the importance of correct laundering techniques in doing up dark cottons. These garments should be separated from linty articles in washing. Ironing on the wrong side is recommended to avoid giving the right side of the material a glazed look.

Q. When a woman drops some article and a stranger picks it up for her, what should she say?

Q. A pleasant "thank you" is usually kind and efficient.

Q. It is better not to do this.

24 Acres Burned in 2 April Forest Fires.

Atlanta—A southern forest fire survey conducted by the Southern Palwood Conservation Association shows that Calfee County had two wild fires in April which burned over 24 acres.

The Association said that careless persons are a major cause of the loss of the forest products in Alabama and other states as indicated by the reports.

The forest fire survey revealed that Alabama experienced 686 wild fires which burned over 13,333 acres during April while seven states and Region Eight,

U. S. Forest Service, reported that 4,708 forest fires burned over 121,828 acres. Debris burning and incendiary fires were cited by most states as major causes of forest fires.
